Conditions applicable to our tour packages:

- Should we be forced to change itineraries or locations due to circumstances beyond our control (e.g. forest fires, snow storms, road closures, avalanches, river levels), the new itinerary will be left to our discretion.
- No matter where you travel in the world, it is possible that conditions beyond anyone's control may alter your itinerary. If we incur expenses for unexpected logistical arrangements not covered in the printed itinerary, the cost will be evenly divided among the participants. We rarely encounter such a situation, but the policy is an industry "norm" of which we wish to inform you up-front.
- We will not take an unnecessary risk, if the circumstances are identified as too dangerous according to our judgment. In such situations, we sit tight until the danger subsides or we can arrange an egress strategy. The cost of such arrangements would be shared evenly amongst the participants.
- If you require evacuation for any reason, the expense incurred through the evacuation will be borne by the participant(s) evacuated. For this reason, we strongly suggest that all of our guests consider the purchase of travel insurance for protection against cancellation penalties and many other unforeseeable circumstances such as an emergency medical evacuation.
- We reserve the right to cancel a tour sixty (60) days prior to starting date if the determined amount of minimum participants has not been met. Clients who have made reservations on the concerned tour will be offered the opportunity to participate in the concerned tour against payment of a small-group surcharge, as indicated in our tour descriptions.
- Though it has never happened before, we reserve the right to cancel a trip up to fourteen (14) days prior to starting date. If we must cancel, a full refund will be made. If this occurs, we will endeavour to meet your needs with another trip at the earliest possible date.
